A Note

From the Editor

Welcome to our October/November edition.

October has inspired poets, writers and musicians for centuries. It is the month of warm colours, reds, golds, browns all around us in our gardens, parks, commons and countryside radiant and inviting us to feast our eyes.

October is also pumpkin festival time, with farms, historical houses and parks across England opening their doors for day and nighttime fun for all ages. You can pick your own pumpkins, carve them or eat lots of delicious treats made from them whilst enjoying fresh air and beautiful scenery.

November 5th is Bonfire Night, which offers the chance of an evening out with convivial company, enjoying hot baked potatoes, a warming drink of mulled cider or a hot chocolate, and some cinder toffee. Most towns and villages, sports clubs, and community centres offer spectacular organised events, often raising money for good causes, and allowing spectators to watch a fantastic firework display in safety.

Stonesthrow Directories celebrate 15th anniversary this November. It has been our mission to bring together our community and businesses serving it. We love receiving your feedback on articles, listings and features you read in every edition. We like to think that printed 'coffee table magazines' are a trusted source of local news, events and business listings. You're more likely to find a truly local tradesman or service here than online, where the whole world competes for your attention all at once. So we ask you to keep supporting our local business by taking the time to share your thoughts and feedback with us, by calling the services your see in Stonesthrow Directories and mentioning where you found their number, by choosing to book and shop local where possible.

Here are the dates for your calendar: 25th October - Daylight Saving Time Starts; 31st October - Halloween; 5th November - Guy Fawkes Day; 8th November - Remembrance Sunday.

However you choose to spend the next couple of months - please remember to keep your heart and your business local.

Yours, Stonesthrow Publications.

The Waller Family: a bundle of Joy

Between 1832 to 1843 there was an ongoing correspondence between Anna Jarrett and her brother Wathen Waller. She was the wife of John Jarrett, the owner of broad acres in Somerset and plantations in Jamaica and Wathen was a diplomat serving in Brussels. Their letters1 provide an interesting insight to maternal attitudes to pregnancy and childbirth among the upper classes in the earlier decades of the 19th century. One of the letters, describing Ann's confinement is pictured here, with a transcription available in the pdf document.

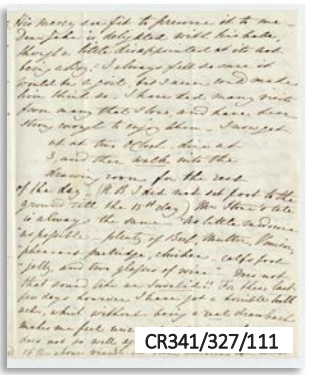

News of pregnancy

In a previous letter2, Anna expresses boundless joy and delight at learning of her pregnancy, an event eagerly awaited during 14 years of marriage. Given that the majority of families in those days were large and that her husband would want an heir to inherit his substantial wealth, this childlessness must have been a great sadness to both. In the event, the birth of a daughter Anna Maria instead of a son was not without some disappointment as the end of the second letter shows : a visitor Sir Charles Clarke was "..rather sharp " with Anna's response to his proposed wager that she would give birth to a son in 12 months' time. Unhappily, she never did have a son, but another daughter named Emily Elizabeth was born in 1840.

The confinement

In the second letter3, a section of which is pictured above, Anna describes her confinement. This term was applied to the birth and the succeeding period of recuperation, usually some 4-6 weeks. It generally ended when the mother was churched and the baby christened, both of which events are mentioned by Anna. During the confinement, Anna comments on how she is treated like an invalid – even writing a long letter is likely to incur a scolding. Many mothers today may be envious of the amount of rest she had!

Or perhaps not – the term, confinement was significant after all. In other respects, her experience was typical of a woman of her social standing. She was attended by a male doctor, Mr Stone, while the great majority of women in the lower classes would have been delivered by midwives.

Misty Double Glazing?

Hi My name is Dave Millidge, let me introduce my company where I repair windows and replace misted up Double glazed units.

The area that I cover is Coventry and Warwickshire. You may have seen me around in your street or even have family and friends who I have worked for in the past ten years, with over 6,000 satisfied customers during that period. I started Misty to Clear to give customers the best value repairs in the current climate.

The Misty to Clear website allows total transparency of the customer experience. You can log into the website and view work that I have carried out. You can also leave feedback on social media. Therefore I give a 5 year guarantee on all new double glazed units fitted by Misty to Clear.

This is a genuine guarantee which does not come as an extra to my price.

I started Misty to Clear mindful that the cost of repairs is probably key to most people's budget when using tradesmen to do work on their behalf in their homes.

I offer a lower cost service to both old and new customers as I operate directly for the customer with no additional hidden charges or insurance costs to you the customer.

So my Company name is Misty to Clear where I can offer steamed up window glass replacement and fix broken handles, hinges, seals, window locks and door locks.

I also change glass in Velux windows too.

Satisfaction guaranteed to be a high standard that carries a 5 year manufacturer backed guarantee.

Clearly a great service!

Don't replace the Frames ...just the Panes!

Misty To Clear Warwick Limited

Remember, Remember the 5th of November

Catholicism in England was heavily repressed under Queen Elizabeth I, particularly after the pope excommunicated her in 1570. Dozens of priests were put to death while Catholics were not allowed to celebrate their religion. When King James took to the throne in 1603 it was hoped this would change, but in 1604 he publicly condemned Catholicism, calling it a superstition, and called for priests to leave the country. In May 1604 a handful of Catholic dissidents—Guy Fawkes, Robert Catesby, Tom Wintour, Jack Wright and Thomas Percy—met at the Duck and Drake inn in London. Here, Catesby proposed a plan to blow up the Houses of Parliament with gunpowder, which they all supported with an oath. Other conspirators later joined what became known as the Gunpowder Plot. Although Catesby was the ringleader, Fawkes has been the one who gained the most publicity, mainly after spending around ten years fighting for Spain against Protestant rebels in the Spanish-controlled Netherlands. He also asked the King of Spain to help with an English rebellion against James. By 1605 Fawkes was calling himself Guido rather than Guy. Also, by using the alias John Johnson, he served as the caretaker of a cellar below the House of Lords. This was where the plotters stockpiled gunpowder. The plan was that Fawkes would light a fuse on November 5, 1605, during the opening of a new session of Parliament. This would result in the death of James and his eldest son – meanwhile, fellow conspirators would kidnap James' daughter Elizabeth and install her as a puppet queen who would be married off to a Catholic to restore the monarchy in their faith. However, there was an anonymous tip-off and a search party found Fawkes in the cellar late on November 4, next to 36 barrels of gunpowder – and some matches. He was tortured in the Tower of London by order of King James. Fawkes and his surviving co-conspirators were all found guilty of high treason and sentenced to death in January 1606 by hanging.

Soon after the plot was revealed, Londoners celebrated with bonfires and the Parliament designated November 5 as a day of thanksgiving. This has now become a time to set off fireworks, light bonfires and burn effigies. The demands for 'penny for the Guy' come from Fawkes' first name. Little is known about the earliest celebrations however in areas such as Carlisle, Norwich, and Nottingham, local councils provided music and artillery salutes. Canterbury celebrated 5 November 1607 with 106 pounds of gunpowder and 14 pounds of match, and three years later food and drink were provided for local dignitaries, as well as music, explosions, and a parade by the local militia. While the annual rituals are more festive and fun than religious and monarchical, it is ironic that the history and perception of Guy Fawkes himself has taken on new meaning. Rather than being seen as a religious extremist and terrorist he has become known as something of a populist hero. His life has been romanticised in tradition and culture and celebrated globally. Yet had the plot been a success, it would have killed everyone in Parliament, with the neighbouring area being destroyed. Ultimately, Guy Fawkes would have been complicit in one of the biggest terrorist acts in British history.

Keeping fit in retirement

Pilates

Joining a Pilates class is a great way to keep active during your retirement years. This form of exercise sees the participants perform particular movements beneficial for the body, from a single leg stretch to rolling like a ball. These moves can be put together to form routines. This kind of activity may help certain kinds of body ailments, and by joining a class with a qualified instructor they will know exactly what moves are suitable and beneficial for you.

Walking

You don't need to make a particular effort to visit the gym or subscribe to a particular fitness class to keep active, as just by stepping outside you can easily go for a walk. Power-walking, where you maintain a brisk pace, helps to increase cardiovascular fitness and over time can even help reduce body weight and reduce the chance of developing Type 2 diabetes. As well as the physical activity, the fresh air and company of a fellow walker are other benefits to this activity.

Dancing

Attending dance lessons weekly is not only great fun, but it also assists in keeping you fit and active. There are a variety of dance classes you can choose to attend. These include those that focus on ballroom dancing, which will cover dances such as the waltz, foxtrot and quickstep, or the faster pace of Latin dancing classes that feature dances such as the cha-cha-cha, samba and jive. This activity is also great for partners or friends to attend together, as it gets the heart beating and laughter flowing.

Gardening

Believe it or not, just going outside into the garden is a brilliant form of regular movement that helps keep you active. All these activities, from weeding your vegetable patch to planting out spring bulbs, mowing the lawn and watering the plot, are beneficial for your health. Creating a vegetable garden not only keeps you on the go but also produces healthy tasty crops to use in the kitchen. If you find you struggle with movement, however, or use a wheelchair, try getting raised beds erected as they offer a much more accessible platform for vegetable gardening with reduced need to bend down to the ground. You can even get your family and friends to get involved with this activity too.

Swimming

Getting into the water at a local swimming pool, or even the ocean, can help keep your muscles moving as you get older. Committing to swimming and going to the pool for regular lengths increases your cardiovascular fitness, but you don't have to take the sport seriously to feel the benefits. You can take the kids and grandchildren along, and you'll find that the continuous movement through the water is beneficial and uplifting for both your physical and mental health. There are even classes for water aerobics that you can attend too.

Stay healthy during the darker months

As October arrives and the clocks prepare to go back, many people begin to notice the effects of shorter days and longer nights. While autumn and winter have plenty to offer, the change in season can affect everything from our energy levels to our mood. Fortunately, a few simple habits can help keep both body and mind in good shape throughout the darker months.

For many of us, the changing of the clocks marks the point where summer finally feels behind us. The evenings become darker earlier, mornings can feel colder and it is often tempting to spend more time indoors. While that is perfectly natural, maintaining a healthy lifestyle during autumn and winter is just as important as it is during the warmer months.

Sunlight

One of the biggest challenges at this time of year is reduced exposure to sunlight. Sunlight helps our bodies produce vitamin D, which plays an important role in maintaining healthy bones, muscles and immune function. As daylight hours decrease, many people find it harder to get enough naturally.

Spending time outdoors whenever possible can help, and some people may choose to discuss supplements with a healthcare professional if appropriate.

Exercise

Exercise is another key factor. When the weather turns colder, motivation can quickly disappear, particularly when activity remains one of the best ways to support both physical and mental wellbeing. This doesn't have to mean intense gym sessions. A brisk daily walk, swimming, cycling or even gardening can all help keep the body active and the mind refreshed.

Sleep

Sleep can also become more important during the darker months. While some people find themselves naturally wanting to sleep longer, disrupted routines and reduced daylight can affect sleep quality. Sticking to regular bedtimes, limiting screen use before bed and creating a comfortable sleeping environment can all contribute to better rest.

Social

Social activity should not be overlooked either. As evenings become darker, it can be easy to decline invitations and spend more time at home. Yet maintaining contact with friends, family and community groups can have significant benefits for mental wellbeing. Whether it's joining a club, attending local events or simply meeting someone for a coffee, social interaction can help combat feelings of isolation during the winter period.

Nutrition

Finally, nutrition plays a vital role in staying healthy. A balanced diet rich in fruit, vegetables, whole grains and lean proteins helps provide the nutrients the body needs to function effectively. Seasonal favourites such as root vegetables, apples and leafy greens can all be excellent additions to autumn menus.

Seasonal Recipe

Butternut Squash Soup & Cheese Toasties

INGREDIENTS:

For the grilled cheese:

4 slices St Pierre Brioche Loaf

2 tbsp butter, softened

1 small garlic clove, crushed

1 tbsp chopped parsley

2 large handfuls grated cheese

For the soup:

1 butternut squash (about 1.5kg)

1 tsp paprika

2 garlic cloves, unpeeled and smashed

Few sprigs fresh thyme

1 tbsp olive oil

Salt and pepper

2 onions, diced

1 large carrot, peeled and chopped

1 stalk celery, sliced

1000ml vegetable stock/bouillon (made with stock/bouillon powder or cube)

4 tbsp light cream

Few extra thyme leaves for garnish

Crushed chili flakes

METHOD

First make the soup. Preheat the oven to 190°C / 170°C fan / Gas Mark 5

Peel, then halve the butternut squash and scoop out the seeds

Wash the seeds, dry on kitchen paper then tip onto a baking tray. Drizzle very sparingly with olive oil and sprinkle with paprika

Chop the butternut squash flesh into roughly 1 inch chunks and tip onto another baking tray together with onion, carrot and celery

Add the smashed garlic and a few whole sprigs of thyme, drizzle with 1 tbsp olive oil and season with a pinch of salt and black pepper

Roast in the oven for 25 minutes at the same time as the squash seeds

When the seeds are toasted and crispy, remove them and set aside

Prepare the grilled cheese toasties. Mix together the softened butter, crushed garlic and parsley then spread over one side of each slice of brioche loaf. Turn two slices over and divide the cheese between them

Top each with another slice of bread, garlic buttered side on the outside (so you have two toasties with garlic butter spread on the outsides). Set the toasties aside

Discard the thyme sprigs and skins from the garlic (but leave the roasted garlic flesh) then tip all the vegetables into a large saucepan

Pour over the stock and bring to a simmer for 10 minutes. Turn off the heat and stir in the cream

Use a stick blender to whizz the soup until smooth.

Heat a large skillet over medium heat and add the toasties

Cook for a couple of minutes then carefully turn over and cook the other sides until golden and the cheese has melted

Serve the soup with a swirl of cream, sprinkling of toasted squash seeds, chili flakes and a few thyme leaves

Cut the grilled cheese toasties in half and serve alongside the soup for dipping in

Bon appétit!
